were surprised a few hours later when they landed from the submarine in a collapsible boat.

Sir Roger was conveyed across fre-lond on Saturday by a strong armed escort who knew the prisoner only by two initials. He arrived in London without incident and immediately was lodged in the metropolitan prison.

The fact that Casement has been brought to fongland to stand trial and is detained in military custody leads to the assumption that he will be tried on the charge of high treason. This charge has been preferred less than half a dozen times in England in the last hundred years. The last instance was in the Boer war, resulting in the conviction of Arthur Lynch in 1963. Mr Lynch, who is now a member of the House of Commons, was sentenced to death but the sentence was committed, and a year later a pardon was granted.

Maybe Beheaded.

Maybe Behended.

Maybe Beheaded.

The Express suggests the possibility that Casement, if convicted of high treasen, may be beheaded, as under the existing law a person found guilty of tals offense may, by crown warrant receive the menalty of beheading instead of hanging.

The men connected with the fillbustering expedition now in the hands of the rovernment include transment, two frish confederates and twenty-two Germans comprising the crew.

The chief importance of the capture lies in the revelations made of an extensive plot having ramifications in Germany, Ireland, and America. Irish-Americans are said to have been largely instrumental in financing the revolutionary movement.

The capture of the expedition by the Navy Secret Service is considered a remarkably good niece of work.

When arrested Casement is reported to have maintained a good front and apparently was without hope of escaping death for treason. It is believed that his trial and condemnation will be speedy, although for the present it is not possible to say whether he will be put to death.

Representatives of the American embassy have been in conference with the officials in charge of the case, presumably regarding the American ramifications.

Mr. Putnam paused for a moment, and repiled:
"I would call it an inquiry."
Mr. Bruncken renewed his objections to having the questions repeated to him, whereupon Mr. Putnam requested The Times' representative to "repeat the reported statements to me while Mr. Bruncken is here."
This was done, and the librarian asked:
"Now, Mr. Bruncken, do you care to avail yourself of the opportunity to deny or affirm the use of this language by you?"
The assistant register said he still observed.

The assistant register said he still objected to being made the subject of a "newspaper investigation," and expressed his contempt for newspapers in general "because they rush into print without verifying what they hear and without giving a man a chance to state his

Mr. Bruncken hesitated for a moment and then said "I will answer questions put to me by my superior officers con-cerning my official conduct."

Putnam Orders Inquiry. Librarian Putnam then informed The Times man that "Mr. Solberg, who is in direct charge of the copyright di-vision, will make inquiry into this matter, questioning Mr. Bruncken and those who say they heard him make these statements, and Mr. Solberg will report to me the result of his inquiry. I shall be out of town far two days, and expect to hear from Mr. Solberg upon my return."

Regarding the flag incident, employes in the copyright division say that first they purchased a large American flag and placed it in one of the windows of their office. This was removed by the chief clerk. A few hours later they purchased smaller flags and placed them on the electric fixtures over their desks. These, too, were removed by the chief clerk.

Register Solberg and Chief Clerk Brown today took full responsibility for the removal of the flags, saying there fact that the British had sunk a Dutch warship, according to reports brought here today.

This fact was concealed from the Dutch public and the incident was closed after England had made suitable apology and had recomised indemnities. The Dutch newspaper de Tribune discloses for the first time the reason for the flurry-in Holland three weeks 210. The newspaper declares that the English sent the crew of the Dutch warship to India to prevent the news from becoming public and to avoid arousing popular indignation in Holland.

The de Tribune said it learned these facts from a member of the crew of the Dutch steamer Breds. It was recalled here that Dutch newspapers three weeks ago reported that the Breds had been held up in England and made to suffer certain inconveniences, the nature of which could not be made public at that time.
